About us

Crypto trading is the process of speculating on cryptocurrency prices, and buying and selling them accordingly. Crypto traders typically use crypto exchanges such as eToro and Uphold. These are marketplaces where traders meet to track prices and make transactions. A cryptocurrency is a digital currency, which is an alternative form of payment created using encryption algorithms. The use of encryption technologies means that cryptocurrencies function both as a currency and as a virtual accounting system. To use cryptocurrencies, you need a cryptocurrency wallet.

Company Vision And Mission

Company Vision

Vision Trader: All-Encompassing Digital Assets Trading Platform. Accessible via API or GUI, it features both lightning-fast execution through BlockFills' unmatched liquidity network, and a web-based admin function that allows for instant trade reconciliation and reporting.

Company Mission

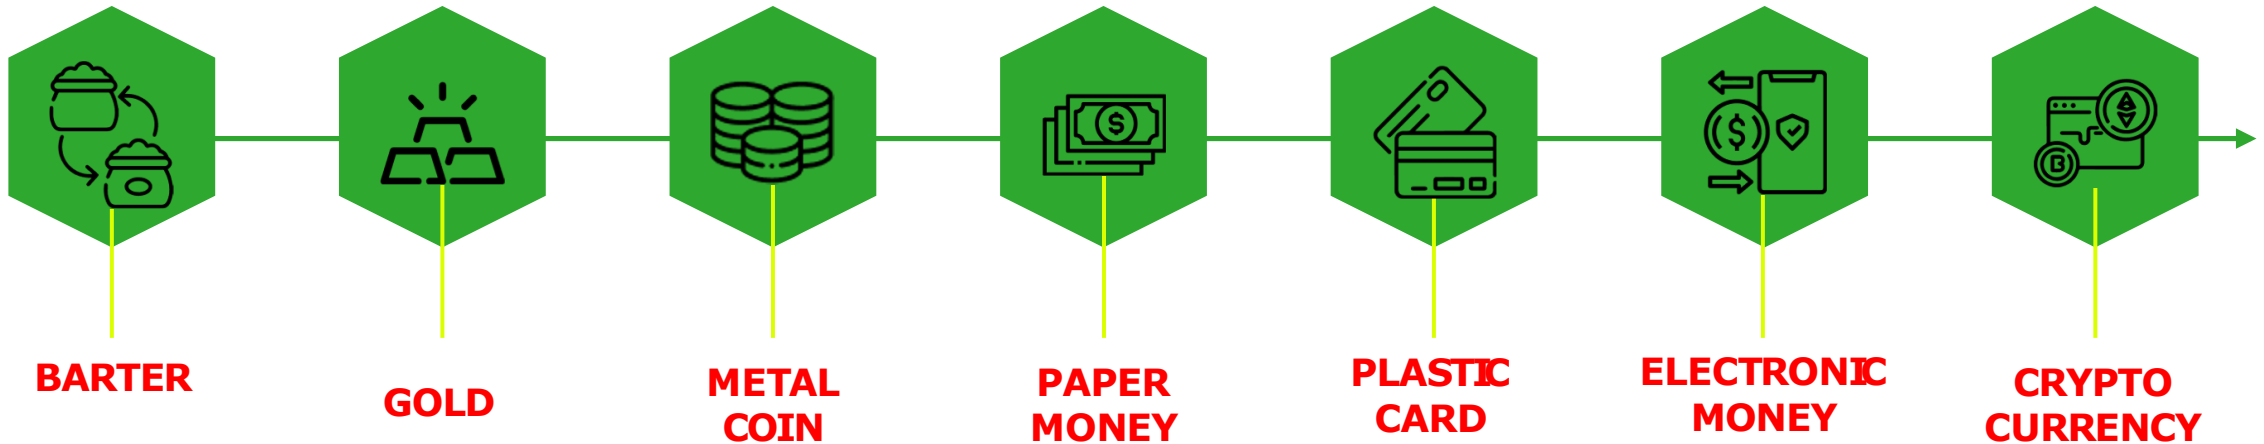

Cryptocurrencies have been created out of an ideology to allow financial freedom to its users. The mission and idea (Satoshi's vision) behind them is quite noble and pioneering. They are supposed to become a means of payment and exchange without any control (and fees) from official institutions and governments.

What is a crypto trade?

A cryptocurrency exchange works similarly like stock exchanges which helps the investors to buy and sell in digital currencies such as Bitcoin, Ethereum or Tether. These platforms work on digital marketplace such as mobile apps or via desktop functions similarly like e-brokerages. As decentralized currencies, crypto is not and will likely never become banned in the U.S. Currently, the sale and purchase of cryptocurrency is legal in all 50 states. That being said, the government can – and does – regulate how virtual currencies are taxed and traded.
